Anika Awasthi

As the founder of Grad Careers Coach, I've spoken to thousands of international students over the past 7 years and I know how challenging and confusing it is to find and apply to suitable graduate jobs with visa sponsorship. Our proven coaching programmes make the process of securing a job offer easy and efficient. All you need is the right guidance.

Daniel Costello

Over 9 years at Shell, I held a number of different HR roles across a variety of business areas, in the UK and globally. Following my time at Shell, I joined Fujitsu, where I currently work as a Senior HR Business Partner within the North West Europe Business.

Jayde Savage

Over the last 8 years I have worked in a graduate recruitment role in both the finance and professional services sectors. My role involves the whole graduate recruitment cycle; from meeting graduates at careers fairs, assessing them at interviews and assessment centres right the way through to offer stage.

Re'anne Brown

I am an accomplished Graduate Recruitment Adviser, with experience working for a mid-sized accounting firm, specialising in recruitment for Tax and Audit roles for our London office. My current role at a global investment bank advises the full 360 recruitment process, from meeting potential candidates on campus to facilitating assessment centres and conducting interviews, to making the final offer.

Elizabeth Weeks

I currently work as the EMEA Graduate Recruitment Manager for Sales, Trading and Research at a global investment bank. Working in the financial sector recruiting both interns and graduates gives me a clear and detailed understanding of the end to end graduate recruitment process.

Laura Halstead

I have had recruitment roles in three different industries: Engineering, Investment Banking and Hospitality. In my current role as Graduate Recruiter I recruit for interns and graduates across a number of divisions. A job offer with visa sponsorship in just 2 months

"I had applied to a few jobs before but all I got was rejections. I never cleared any application stage. I never used to tailor my CV and cover letter, my CV was 4 pages long. Through coaching I realised what are my strengths and weaknesses and I started bringing that into my applications. I now still can't believe I have a job offer!"
